THE report of the Building

EDITORIAL

Home Building Costs

- Costs Committee includes familiar arguments-mostly of a negative nature-and the conclusion to be drawn is that the middle and lower income groups have very dim prospects of their housing problem being solved for a long time to come. We do not condemn the Building Costs Committee for their findings: on the contrary it is a most studious report and offers a new appreciation of the many tantalising angles which comprise the sum of the housing problem. Carefully thereport warns the layman that are many present-day factors in building property which only the owner, his contractors and his architect can fully appreciate. They involve, for example, tremendously increased labour costs, inferior workmanship over a shorter day's work, higher freight charges, inflated prices for raw materials, and greatly appreciated Crown land values, Actually, all of these factors are well within the cognisance of the layman, but his concern now is how can he possess a home when his income does not allow him to afford the ruling prices of the day? At the risk of over-simplification we suggest that herein ties the real problem of accommodation. Any dwelling which absorbs between 50 and 60 percent of a man's income obviously is uneconomical. Yet he must live somewhere. And more dwelling houses are needed in Hongkong, not only to provide economic accommodation New the middle and lower groups of wagecarners, but also to help relieve the 'frightful living-space congestion which " continues to threaten the health and happiness of the Colony. The Building Costs Committee advances one or two suggestions-none of them original nor particularly unique. But they can bear closer inspection, especially by Government. Two stand out very clearly. One is making more areas available (and also making them known to the public) for acquisition on financing of leans through an accredited Housing Commission. Both are fundamental to the encouragement of home building, and without any such inducement, large-scale building on a non-speculative basis can be ruled out for years to come, In this connection much appears to depend on whether Government seriously wants its precious Crown land developed in such a way that, while it may help the housing shoringe, if will be deprived of ready and substantial income. The point has some importance. Government is in a position to surrender many choice sites at what the sake of stimulating non-profit making building projects. But dangling before the eyes Government (especially Treasury) is the "gift" of lakhs of dollars for land to be developed by the speculative and "get rich" property builders. The choice would appear to be between the moral responsibility providing land cheaply those who would build if they could, or selling dearly to those who will buy because they know there are quick profits to be made, As for the official financing of loans, we have previously, expressed our views. It has been done in to many other places that we fall to see why it should be impossible here - more particularly as Government has experienced no difficulty in financing out of public funds its own little housing" problem. Le.; new flats for Government servants. . Hongkong. does not expect its housing problem to be completely solved in a day; not even in five years. But if Government could display the same purposefulness in help-'ing the ordinary clilicen to find his own home as it has in providing for its employees, cit would at least, give new heart and spirit to those who have. reached the borderline of despair.

London, Sept. 6. AST Friday, six years and nine months after the United States entered the against Germany and Japan, the British and American air forces were again joined in air operations.

This air co-operation, of which the exercise "Dagger" is conly one obvious indication, is remarkable for two reasons. For the firs, time in sions. history, a friendly. Power has been provided in peacetime with military air bases in Britida. Training operations are being conducted by the air forces of .wo nations which are united, not by any formal military alliance, but by their determination to do everything possible to preserve peace and, in the resort, to defend themselves against further aggression.

Retention of a few trained men-due for release from the Services is, at best, a temporary palliative. Extension of the period of National Service from 12 to 18 months will not redress the serious shortage of skilled men. .

Unpopular Pay Code

THE root cause of the trouble is I the unpopular new pay code which the Services were reluctantly compelled to accept in 1946.

Since then, at many RAF stations not a single airman has been persuaded to re-engage. The reason given is invariably the same. Here's The Attempted To Murder Own Child

Woman Discharged On Surety Bond

"I have given this case my consideration and in view of the unusual circumstances and in spite of the gravity of the charge, I can ace no good purpose by sending you to prison." Mr Justice Gould told Leung Oi, a 34-year-old married woman, when she was brought before him at the Criminal Sessions this morning for sentence on a charge of attempted murder of her child.

Mr A. J. Clifford, instructed by Mr P. C. Woo, represented the necused and yesterday, entered a plea of guilty, pleading extenuating circumstances.

His Lordship remarked the possibility of danger, which Counsel for Defence must appreciate, which would arise if accused on being liberated should repeat the attempt which she had already made. This. would then turn the act of mercy into a tragic error, but his Lordship did not think that would arise if accused was sufficiently well looked after.

Mr Clifford said that accused's father-in-law, Fung Yuk, was in Court and was prepared to sign an undertaking to that effect.

Accused was discharged on surety of a bond for $1,000 and on condition that she entered into a recognisance to be of good behaviour and come up for sentence when called upon to do so at any time within 12 months.

MILBURN OF NEWCASTLE AN INTER-LEAGUE DISCOVERY

Liverpool, Sept. 20. — The young Newcastle United centre forward, Milburn, was the discovery in the parade of potential Internationals of the English Football League, which easily defeated the Irish League by five goals to one at Anfield, Liverpool, tonight in the first representative match of the season.

Milburn obtained a brilliant hat trick in the space of 33 minutes in the first half and his leadership and lining up with the two quick-moving inside-forwards was one of the features of the game.

Stapley Matthews, the England outside-right, captained an English representative side for the first time in his career, and he was a constant menace to the Irish defence.

The English side led by four goals to one at halftime. Their other goals were scored by Shackleton and Morris, Jones netting the Irishmen's only goal .- Reuter.

The "Father Of Baseball" Still Rages Controversy By FLOYD WALTER

A flurry of warm tropical rain spattered against the rows of silent headstones at trim, parklike Nuuana Cemetery in Honolulu.

"It won't last long," promised my guide, S. Furakawa, a greying, solemn little Japanese. And, true to the prophecy, the sun emerged seconds later and bathed the brown marble memorial to Alexander Joy Cartwright, Jr., except where a graceful palm tree laid lack fingers of shade.

Establish Diamonds To Make Slam Bid

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY PRIDGE is a partnership game. D For that reason, individual tournaments, in which every participant plays with every other participant as a partner, have not gained great popularity. An exception to this is the master individual championship, which is strictly invitational, and always fills up easily. Miss Frances Nelson, of Chicago, runs an individual game annually that attracts players from all over the country, A large 'number of eastern stars participated in it this year, but none of them finished in the first eight. The winner after four or five sessions of play, was Lester Hofheimer, of St. Louis, Mo. Harry Fishbein, of New York, selected today's hand as the outstanding one of the tournament. The opening lead of king of spades must be won by declarer with the ace. If the diamond suit will break three-three, declarer does not have much of a problem, but he must guard against a four-two break.

Therefore, at this point he should cash the king of diamonds and lead a small diamond to the ace. A small diamond should be returned and trumped with the acc of hearts. Next he leads the eight of hearts, wins in dummy with the ten-sot, returns a small diamond and trumps with the king of hearts.

Now the fifth diamond is established, so declarer leads another heart to dummy's queen and discards his spade on the good diamond. Then he can ruff dummy's spade with his last heart, and simply concede a club trick. If declarer lays down a high trump from his hand to start with, he will lose the contract. When this hand actually was played in Chicago, West held the ten of hearts and dummy the nine of hearts. Fishbein .contends that the correct percentage play is to lead a small heart toward dummy and play the nine-spot. However, 1 thought that was a little too much for you and me. I switched the ten and nine and it is still a very nice
